HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS,

AND

Hoofland's German Tonic.

The Great Remedies for all Diseases of the LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS

Is composed of the pure juices (or, as they are medicinally termed, Extracts,) of Roots, Herbs, and Barks, making a preparation, highly concentrated, and entirely free from alcoholic admixture of any kind.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,

Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, &c., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public.

Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcoholic admixture, will use

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

Those who have no objection to the combination of the bitters, as stated, will use

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.

They are both equally good, and contain the same medicinal virtues, the choice between the two being a mere matter of taste, the Tonic being the most palatable.

The stomach, from a variety of causes, such as indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, etc., is very apt to have its functions deranged. The Liver, sympathizing as closely as it does with the stomach, then becomes affected, the result of which is that the patient suffers from several or more of the following diseases:

Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fulness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits.

The sufferer from these diseases should exercise the greatest caution in the selection of a remedy for his case, purchasing only that which he is assured from his investigations and inquiries possesses true merit, is skillfully compounded, is free from injurious ingredients, and has established for itself a reputation for the cure of these diseases. In this connection we would submit these well known remedies—

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BETTERS,

AND

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC

Prepared by DR. C. M. JACKSON,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Twenty-two years since they were first introduced into this country from Germany, during which time they have undoubtedly performed more cures, and benefited suffering humanity to a greater extent, than any other remedies known to the public.

These remedies will effectually cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Chronic Diarrhœa, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a disordered Liver, Stomach, or Intestines.

DEBILITY,

Resulting from any Cause whatever; PROSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM, induced by Severe Labor, Hardships, Exposure, Fevers, &c.

There is no medicine extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole system, the appetite is strengthened, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests promptly, the blood is purified, the complexion becomes sound and healthy, the yellow tinge is eradicated from the eyes, a bloom is given to the cheeks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy being.

PERSONS ADVANCED IN LIFE,

And feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all its attendant ills, will find in the use of the BITTERS, or the TONIC, a source that will instil new life into their veins, restore in a measure the energy and ardor of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their tentalizing years.

NOTICE.

It is a well established fact that fully one half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health; or, to use their own expression, never feel well! They are languid, devoid of all energy, extremely nervous, have no appetite.

To this class of persons the BITTERS, or the TONIC, is especially recommended.

WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN,

Are made strong by the use of either of these remedies. They will cure every case of MARASMUS, without fail.

Thousands of certificates have accumulated in the hands of the proprietor, but space will allow of the publication of but a few. Those, it will be observed, are men of note and of such standing that they must be believed.

TESTIMONIALS.

HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD,

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pa., writes:

Philadelphia, March 18, 1767.

"I find 'Hoofland's German Bitters' is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in cases of debility, and want of nervous action in the system.

Yours, truly,

GEO. W. WOODWARD."

HON. JAMES THOMPSON,

Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, April 28, 1866.

"I consider 'Hoofland's German Bitters' a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it. Yours, with respect, JAMES THOMPSON."

FROM REV. JOSEPH H. KENNARD, D. D.,

Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.

Dr. Jackson—Dear Sir: I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear proof in various instances and particularly in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that, for general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.

Yours, very respectfully,

J. H. KENNARD,
Eighth, below Coates St.

FROM REV. E. D. PENDALL,

Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia.

I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic, to all who are suffering from general debility or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver.

Yours truly,

E. D. PENDALL.

A LEAP YEAR LAMENT.

Bother! 'tis leap year, boys,
Awful to think of it;
Ruin is yawning, boys,
We're on the brink of it;
Victims to woman's schemes,
Each of us, all of us,
Sure as we're living, boys,
They'll be the fall of us.

Fall of us, all of us,
Bachelors, young and old;
Maidens are planning, boys,
Nothing their tongues can hold,
Planning all sorts of things—
Awful to think of it!
Ruin approaches, boys,
We're on the brink of it!

Confound the girls, I say,
Tyrants the whole of them—
Binding us wretches, boys,
To the control of them;
Shy of the witches, boys,
For we are weak, you know,
Worst of it they know it—
Shame I must speak it so!

Popping the question, boys,
That's what they'll do to us,
If we but give the plagues
Half a side view of us;
Red lips and sparkling eyes,
Well, let me think of it;
Heigh! sweet ruin, boys,
I like to think of it.

FIVE YEARS ON GUARD.

During the French empire every regiment had its dog, whose intelligence, thanks to the soldiers' care, was improved by education and discipline. The grand army's dogs were picked up almost everywhere, except in England. They had been recruited in Poland, in Prussia, in Holland, in Saxony, and in Flanders. They were mongrel mastiffs, hounds, Danish dogs and spaniels. But no matter whence they came, they soon turned out French. Foreign dogs were naturalized without knowing it.

Rugen is an island on the Black Sea, opposite to Stralsund, on the coast of Pomerania. Fortified both by nature and art, its situation is exceedingly strong. In time of peace, in consequence of its fertile soil, its salubrious air, and its mild climate, it is a delightful retreat. In time of war it is an important post, a natural citadel, a formidable fortress, whose possession has been purchased at the expense of many a bloody fight. During the campaign of 1807 this island was comprised in their sphere of operations by [illegible] corps commanded by Marshal Davoust, and was occupied by an infantry regiment of the line, and by several companies of sappers and miners.—The regiment, of course, had a dog—a black-and-white poodle—named Capucin, not because he was born in a Capucin convent, in Italy (which would have been quite a sufficient reason), but in allusion to the copper or iron rings by which a gun barrel is fastened to its stock. The dog's sharp bark might, perhaps, have been thought to resemble the snappy report of a musket.

In consequence of a change in the plan of operations ordered by Napoleon the First, the island had to be suddenly evacuated, to carry out a movement in retreat, abandoning the whole line of the Pomeranian coast.—Every post, every man was withdrawn, but in such a hasty way that they forgot an advanced sentinel, perched on the top of a hillock, which commanded the entrance of Rugen. This sentinel was a young soldier, named Firmin Bonard, who had scarcely been three months in the service. At present a soldier who has served three years is considered quite a veteran.—At that time troopers who could reckon three, five, seven and nine years of service, were still called conscripts.—Now, Bonard, the soldier, and Capucin, the dog, happened to be particular friends, bound by the strongest ties of mutual attachment.

The corporal of the post had planted Firmin as sentinel on the hillock exactly at midnight. The latter thereof calculated on being relieved at two in the morning, and also that from two till five in the morning he would have three good hours to doze and slumber in the corps of guard. So Firmin Bonard boguiled the time by anticipating this supreme indulgence, also by thoughts of his village steeple, of his aged cure's ancient housekeeper, of the haystack where he used to play at hide and seek, and sundry other recollections. In this the minutes slipped slowly by, and the two hours' guard were drawing to a close.

All at once he heard a slight noise. He listened. "It is the corporal coming to relieve the guard," he thought, and prepared to utter the formal "qui vive." But the sound, which resembled that of human footsteps, was soon followed by complete silence. "I could not be mistaken!" he said to himself. "Besides, my time must now be up." Almost immediately he heard the barking of a dog, who came running forward in his direction. On recognizing Capucin's voice the sentinel looked around him anxiously. Perceiving nothing which threatened an attack, he wondered what could be the meaning of this nocturnal visit. Before he had time to consider the matter the animal had climbed the hill and was jumping up his legs.

"It's you, Capucin. Very good. You got tired of waiting there; and I am tired of standing here. The air is keen, and I am terribly sleepy. You should have brought the corporal with you. His watch must have stopped. He ought to sell it for old iron, and buy a new one."

Capucin's answer was a frenzied bark and series of mad leaps around his friend.

"I understand," said Firmin, smiling. "You're asking me to dance to warm myself. It's a pity you are not provided with the password and a musket."

Capucin commenced to bark, running right and left like a creature possessed. Finding all these manœuvres useless, he ran up to the soldier, pulled him by the coat, and tried hard to pull him away, renewing his efforts with so much violence that he tore the soldier's uniform. Firmin, considering this proof of affection more troublesome than pleasant, lost his temper and gave poor Capucin a kick. The dog, howling at finding himself so cruelly maltreated and misunderstood, retreated to a few paces distant; but soon returned, heedless of his friend's unkind treatment. All he did now was to look forgiveness and lick the soldier's hand.

"Be quiet, will you? and take yourself off," said Firmin, harshly, as he threatened him with the butt of his gun, to drive him away. Capucin, finding he could do no good, unwillingly made up his mind to depart. He arrived just in time to go on board with the last detachment of his corps.

At four o'clock Firmin began to lose patience. Discipline forbade his quitting the post, but hunger, which drives the wolf out of the wood, compelled him to forget the code militaire. He left his station and went to the guard house, muttering to himself, "If anybody deserves to be shot for this it is not I, but the corporal, who doesn't know his business and keeps a sentinel on guard six hours at a time."

In the guard-house not a creature. The only supposition he could form was that the regiment had gone to occupy another part of the island. He shouldered his gun and walked off across the country in search of his regiment. On the way he fell in with a farmer plowing a field. "Can you tell me," he asked him, "in what direction the French have marched?"

"They have gone away," was the startling reply. "They embarked at two o'clock this morning, stepping lightly and without uttering a word, in consequence of an order received from the Emperor."

"Gone away, leaving me behind! I shall be reported as a deserter! Confound that corporal; he has been my ruin. I understand what poor Capucin meant. It is not death I fear, so much as the disgrace."

"Don't take on in that way," said the farmer, in a consolatory tone of voice. "Shrieking never set a broken bone. Stay here and make the best of your way to Stralsund, and when you get back again I can prove that it was no fault of yours."

"My good man, you do not know the severity of our rules."

"They will not punish you for a crime you have not committed. Meanwhile, you cannot live on air. You probably were brought up in the country, and are accustomed to do country work?"

"Certainly. I can plow, for instance."

"The very thing for me. I can offer you good board and lodging, with a small weekly payment into the bargain. It will be the best thing you can do, under the circumstances."

The soldier heaved a heavy sigh, and slowly gazed all around the horizon, to see whether any of the ships were still visible. Beholding nothing, he said at last, "I thankfully accept your offer."

"Good," said the farmer, Peter Baxen. "Come and breakfast at once. We will go on with the plowing afterwards."

At Baxen's farm the soldier had plenty of opportunities of proving his capacity. He found such favor in the farmer's eyes—and in other people's too—that Baxen determined to try and keep him for good and all.

"My worthy fellow," he said, one day, "I look upon you almost as a son."

"If my poor father," Firmin answered, "were not anxiously awaiting my return to France, I would willingly remain in Rugen."

"You can bring him back with you the next time you go to France. But what I want to say to you now concerns my daughter."

Firmin colored up to the eyes.

"Unless I am much mistaken, you and she are very good friends."

Firmin uttered a few unintelligible words.

"The neighbors even say you are in love with her."

"I assure you I never uttered a word which could lead her to suppose that."

"I know it, and for that very reason I took upon myself to tell her that if you had no objection, she might have you for a husband."

"And she said—"

"Not a word, but she threw her arms around my neck and kissed me for a quarter of an hour!"

A fortnight afterwards Firmin Bonard was married to the fair-haired Clarrissa, Peter Baxen's only daughter.

Four years then elapsed pretty equally divided between love and labor. His thoughts occasionally reverted to France, but he had almost forgotten his compulsory desertion. The past soon fades from our memory when the present is satisfactory, and the future promising.

One morning the look-out man in the town of Rugen signaled a fleet of ships in the offing. They were men-of-war carrying the French flag.

"The French are coming!" people shouted to each other. "They are going to land!"

Firmin Bonard heard it. "The French are coming!" rang in his ears like the boom of an alarm-gun. I told him that he was a lost man. Nevertheless, a thought struck him which relieved his heart by a glimmer of hope.

He ran home, put on his uniform, seized his arms, and mounted guard on the very spot where, five years before, he had unintentionally been abandoned. Meanwhile, boats full of soldiers rowed toward the hillock. In the forepart of one of the boats was a black and white poodle. As it approached the beach the creature barked with joy. In spite of his anxiety, Firmin's eyes filled with tears as he recognized his old friend Capucin. The dog, unable to master his impatience, jumped into the sea and swam ashore.

As soon as the boat had come within ear-shot Firmin "made ready," and shouted at the top of his voice, "Qui vive!"

"Qui vive, yourself!" said the occupant of the first boat, which was filled with officers, composing Marshal Davoust's staff. "Who are you, and what are you doing here?"

"I am a sentinel, keeping guard."

"A pretty sentinel! How long have you been on guard?"

"Five years."

"It is time to come down then," shouted the officers, laughing.

When Firmin descended from his hill Capucin ran to meet him half way barking with joy and jumping into his arms.

"Poor Capucin, have it all your own way this time. Do what you like.—Dirty me, tear my clothes; I shan't send you away. I ought to have made a better return for your attempt to serve me."

Followed by the faithful dog, Firmin joined his former comrades. He gave a plain account of what had happened. By a lucky chance, the corporal who had forgotten him, and had been promoted, belonged to Marshal Davoust's staff. He received his old comrade with open arms. Firmin, in return, invited his countrymen to the farm, where he entertained them with liberal hospitality. The adventure reached Marshal Davoust's ears. He laughed at Firmin's strategy, and presented him with a discharge drawn up in due form. "I should not like the brave fellow," he said, "to appear before a courtmartial after having kept guard so long."

Firmin continued a farmer. He had a large family, who at present fill the largest and most important offices in the island. They are commonly known as the Sentinel's Family. When the French army left Rugen, Capucin remained. Like his master, he forgot his military mates, and devoted himself exclusively to farming.

Wit, Humor and Wisdom.

—"Can a musician execute a piece of music before he gets the hang of it?" "Yes he can stabat matter."

—What is the difference between a looker-on at a mart and a mariner? One sees the sole, and the other sails the sea.

—A country boy, who had read of sailors heaving up anchors, wanted to know if it was sea-sickness that made them do it.

—A chap, who was told by a tract-peddler to "remember Lot's wife," replied that he had been troubled enough already about other men's wives.

—"If you had avoided rum," said a rum-seller to a customer, "you could now ride in your carriage." "And if you had never sold rum," said the bachanal, "you would have been my driver."

—The worst pun ever made in this country was as follows: A man vexed at his child that had acquired the habit of crying for pennies, said; "You are getting to be a most a-crimonious child!

—Repetition is the mother of all culture. Like the fresco painter, let the educator lay his colors on the wet chalk; they will dry in, indeed, but he will renew them again and again, until they remain and bloom forever.

—A foppish nobleman, who saw Descartes enjoying himself at the table, having expressed his astonishment that a philosopher should exhibit such fondness for good cheer, got this answer for his pains: "And pray, my lord, did you think that good things were only made for fools?"

—A Missionary among the freedmen in Tennessee, after relating to some little colored children the story of Ananias and Sapphira, asked them why God does not strike everybody dead who tells a lie; when one of the least of them quickly answered: "Because there wouldn't be anybody left."

—Some people suppose that every learned man is an educated man. No such thing. The man is educated who knows himself, and takes accurate common sense views of men and things around him. Some very learned men are the greatest fools in the world; the reason is that they are not educated men. Learning is only the means, not the end. Its value consists in giving the means of acquiring the use of the mind.

—B. F. Taylor writes: "She who has been a good daughter, a loving wife, and an old-fashioned mother, is pretty near ready for an abundant entrance into the Kingdom of Heaven. A home without a girl in it is only half blest; it is an orchard without blossoms and a Spring without song. A house full of sons is like Lebanon with its cedars, but daughters by the fireside are like the roses in Sharon." There are young men in our town who think the latter ides in the last sentence is "just about the thing."

—The Greencastle Valley Echo gives the following ludicrous incident as occuring in that place. A quarterly meeting was going on in one of the churches, and a lady member resolved to have her four year old boy baptized. The time for the ceremony arriving, she proceeded to the altar with her bright, laughing cherub in her arms. By the usual form, the minister proceeded to baptise "young hopeful" in the name of the "Father, Son and Holy Ghost," when he suddenly threw himself back in his mother's arms, exclaiming: "Hold up, mister, Betty washed my face before I came here!" The mother's face flushed, a visible smile lit up the minister's countenance, and the congregation "snickered" aloud. Child-like, he saw the sensation he had created, and joined in the merriment.

—A lady in Rhinebeck was recently reading to her child—a boy of seven years of age—a story of a little fellow whose father was taken ill and died; whereupon the youngster set himself diligently to work to assist in supporting himself and his mother. When she had finished the story, the following dialogue ensued:

Mother—Now, my little man, if pa was to die, wouldn't you work to help your mother?

Boy—(Not relishing the idea of work.)—Why ma, what for? Ain't we got a good house to live in?

Mother—O, yes, my child; but we can't eat the house, you know.

Boy—Well, ain't we got flour, and sugar, and other things, in the store-room?

Mother—Certainly we have, my dear, but they will not last long; and what then?

Boy—Well, ma, ain't there enough to last until you can get another husband?

A roar of laughter ended the colloquy.

—Don't be afraid of a little fun at home. Don't shut up your house lest the sun should fade your carpets; and your hearts, lest a hearty laugh should shake down some of the musty cobwebs there! If you want to ruin your sons, let them think that all mirth and social enjoyment must be left on the threshold when they come home at night. Young people must have fun and relaxation somewhere. If they do not have it at their own hearthstones, it will be sought in other and less profitable places. Therefore, let the fire burn brightly at night, and make the home ever delightful with all those little arts that parents so perfectly understand. Don't repress the buoyant spirits of your children; half an hour of merriment round the lamp and fire of home, blots out the remembrance of many a care and annoyance during the day, and the best safeguard they can take with them into the world is the unseen influence of a bright little domestic sanctum.

MONEY.—Men work for it, beg for it, steal for it, starve for it, and die for it; and all the while, from the cradle to the grave, God and nature are thundering in our ears the solemn question "What shall it profit a man to gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" The madness for money is the strongest and lowest of the passions, for it is the insatiate Moloch of the human heart, before whose remorseless altar all the finer attributes of humanity are sacrificed. It makes merchandise of all that is sacred in the human affections, and even traffics in the awful solemnities of the eternal.

☞It is a fair step toward happiness to delight in the conversation of wise and good men; where that cannot be had, the next point is to keep no company at all.

☞Genius either discovers new materials of nature, or combines the known with novelty. Talent arranges, cultivates, polishes the discoveries of genius.

☞A wag remarks that he has seen a couple of sisters who had to be told everything together, for they were so much alike that they couldn't be told apart.

For Boys.—If you should see a man digging in a snow drift with the expectation of finding a valuable ore, or planting seed on the rolling billows, you would say at once that he was beside himself. But in what respect does this man differ from you, while you sow the seed of idleness and dissipation in your youth, and expect the fruits of age will be a good constitution, elevated affections and holy principles?

Life is a book, in which we every day read a page. We ought to note down every instructive incident that passes. A crowd of useful thoughts cannot but flow from self-converse.—Hold every day a solitary conversation with yourself. This is the way in which to attain the highest relish of existence; and, if I may so say, to cast anchor in the river of life.—M. Eroz.

The Globe.

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Wednesday morning, April 29, 1868.

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

OUR CANDIDATES:

FOR PRESIDENT,

U. S. GRANT.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

A. G. CURTIN.

FOR AUDITOR GENERAL,

GEN. JOHN F. HARTRANFT,

OF MONTGOMERY COUNTY.

FOR SURVEYOR GENERAL,

GEN. JACOB M. CAMPBELL,

OF CAMBRIA COUNTY.

☞Elections are taking place in most of the Southern States. North Carolina, Louisiana and Georgia have adopted their Constitutions by small majorities.

☞Gen. James S. Brisbin, by his attack on Ex-Governor Curtin, has invoked for himself a retaliation which cannot fail to be of great damage to him as a soldier and a civilian. The Pittsburg Commercial is publishing letters from all parts of the State, written by soldiers who place Brisbin in a most unenviable light.

THE IMPEACHMENT.—Another week and the great trial will be ended. It is generally believed now that President Johnson will be convicted. What next? Congress will then go on reconstructing the Southern States and possibly may be more successful in the future than in the past giving peace where now there is nothing but strife. A change for the better is very desirable.

CLEAR THE TRACK.—President Johnson removed, the track will be cleared to the "policy" of the Republican party. If that policy should not bring about a change of the "situation" the people will rise in their strength and demand a change of rulers. It is to be hoped that the leaders of the great Republican party will so act as to lead it in the right direction and clear of breakers.

☞The Ohio Legislature, which is Democratic, notwithstanding it has completed all its business, still remains in session, and it is intimated will continue to remain in session, until the trial of the President is concluded. What it will do then will be left for time to determine. But what it is doing now for the people of Ohio, in keeping up an expense of one thousand five hundred dollars per day, does not speak well for their ideas of retrenchment.

☞A. T. Stewart's attention having been called to reports that he had withdrawn from the support of Gen. Grant, has written a letter, saying that such reports are utterly unfounded. He says: "So far from having withdrawn from General Grant's support, I am daily, as far as one individual can, exerting all honorable means to bring about his (Grant's) nomination and election; believing it to be the only effectual way of giving peace and prosperity to our present disunited Union.

☞The President sent to the Senate on Friday last the nomination of Gen. Schofield to be Secretary of War—at the same time asking to withdraw the name of Thomas Ewing. General Schofield is now in command of the Virginia District, and has lately shown an opposition to the reconstruction policy of the Virginia Radical Convention. The Senate will of course reject this last nomination, when it takes action on the question which will not be until after the impeachment trial ends.

☞Female Suffrage was practically exemplified at the village of Sturgis, in Michigan, when the new Constitution of the State was submitted to the people last week. The women of the village assembled in the afternoon, were duly marshalled to the voting place and deposited their ballots, one hundred and fourteen voting for prohibition and only six against it. The proceedings were orderly, and as a proof of their sympathy for woman's rights, three hearty cheers for the new votes were given by the crowd of men who looked on.

☞The House of Representatives last week adopted by a vote of 75 to 44 a bill amendatory of the bankrupt law. It makes verbal changes in several sections of the original law, and authorizes registers in bankruptcy to administer oaths in all cases, and in reference to all matters in which oaths may be administered by Commissioners of the Circuit Courts of the United States. One of the most important amendments declares that in all proceedings in bankruptcy commenced after January 1, 1869, there shall be no discharge "granted to a debtor whose assets shall not be equal to fifty per centum of the claims proved against his estate," without the consent of a majority in number and value of his creditors. As the law stood before, this rule went into effect on the first of June next. It is now extended until January. The purpose of Congress is to check the growing disposition of notoriously dishonest persons to claim the benefit of the bankrupt law.

☞Our nation is passing through another crisis; and it appears that hardly is one finished until another is presented. We have contended with the past dangers, and passed through them triumphantly; but what is yet in store for us, Heaven only knows. In 1861, the war commenced; in 1865, after a bloody and anxious struggle, it closed; in 1865, President Lincoln was assassinated; and now we are witnessing the trial of his successor for "high crimes and misdemeanors." What will follow the close of this event we are not prophet enough to foretell. The reconstruction of the Southern States which five years ago resounded with the tramp of soldiers seeking the blood of each other, is not yet completed; the finances of our nation need recuperation; the business of the country to a general extent is running in a sluggish channel; and we need unity and confidence re-established in all parts of our common country. Does it not require statesmanship now, if it ever did? Will a rigid exactment of sacrifices for the good or interests of mere party save us now? No, emphatically no. Statesmen are wanted, whose aim shall be continually the re-union of our country, North with South, and South with North. As to President Johnson, if he is in the way of the establishment of peace, and if he has been guilty of the "high crimes and misdemeanors" for which he is now being tried, let the Senate render its verdict in accordance therewith. If he is not, then in the future of his brief term of office, let Congress act wisely, and look to a more speedy reconstruction of the Southern States, for with Congress alone is left the solution of the problems in political economy that are now presented.

☞The Kuk-Klux Klan still continue their threats against the Managers of the impeachment, and against Gen. Grant, Ben. Wade, and others The country may not suffer from the more effect of the threats at present, but if these threats of assassination are carried into execution, woe betide the authors. Does the South expect to receive the sympathy of the North if it encourages such associations to deeds of murder. For every leading Northern man that is assassinated, no matter how radical he may be, there will be an additional wound inflicted upon those who desire to see our country united and happy, and it will only tend to divide and distract us. The South can only expect leniency when they show a more submissive spirit, and we would be sorry if the wounds of our recent struggle would be opened up afresh by the indiscretion of some of its disaffected people. For our part we will prefer open war to continual dread of a secret foe; but of each we have had enough.

A PREDICTION.—The Pittsburg Republic, a Johnson paper, makes the following prediction:

"The acquittal of the President will bring to the country peace, happiness, harmony and prosperity. The conviction and removal of the President must result in anarchy, despotism, disunion, ruin and disgrace, and bring on a crash that will so prostrate the business of our people that they will neither forget nor forgive any of those who have a hand in the matter. Prices will go down with fearful rapidity, and the revulsion will be more severe and astonishing than anything that has preceded it in the history of the American nation. The railroads, the banks, the telegraph, steamboat and express lines, coal, oil and other companies will break down, and their stock will not bring ten cents on the dollar. Interests of all kinds will become depreciated, and values will become almost worthless. This will be the result of conviction."

If the people could believe that conviction of the President would bring upon the country all the evils named, but very few, if any, could be found in favor of his conviction. The "situation" is bad enough already—we can't think of it becoming worse.

GENERAL GRANT.—The New York Times says very justly, it is a mistake to suppose that it is intended to elect Grant to the Presidency only upon his military record. Grant has shown a capacity for administration, a fitness for the performance of civil functions, a devotion to the principles of the Constitution, a respect for the laws, a degree of political sagacity and justice, and a faith in the ideas of liberty and progress that constitute far higher grounds than his military record why he should be elevated to a position where he can use his powers for restoring peace and prosperity to our distracted country.

☞A conference of the friends of American Industry, convened by Peter Cooper, Esq., President of the Industrial League, for the purpose of taking counsel as to the present industrial and financial condition of the country, and of promoting the objects of the League, will be held at the Metropolitan Hotel, New York, on Tuesday, April 28, 1868, at 12 o'clock. A general attendance is desired. It is hoped that Pennsylvania will be largely represented.

☞The agricultural reports from the West are generally to the effect that the winter wheat has passed successfully through the cold weather, and a large harvest is anticipated. Spring wheat has been sown in abundance.

☞The safe of A. Kreider, at Lebanon, Pa., was robbed on Thursday night, of $6,200 in United States bonds and other valuable property.

[For the Globe.]

I have been reading letters from the immaculate pen of James S. Brisbin, written from Lexington, Kentucky, as a member of the Soldiers National Executive Committee, to the chairman of that committee, denouncing in the severest terms, Pennsylvania's first choice for Vice President. I have also read several articles published in different papers throughout the State, showing up this man, and, although it is giving him entirely too much notoriety, (just what he wants,) I desire to show what manner of man he is, who presumes to attack a man who is as far above him in intelligence, loyalty, honesty, and virtue, as the heavens are above the earth.

It is either my good or ill-fortune to know this same Brisbin, and I know him to be just what any intelligent man would judge him to be, after reading one of his crazy letters. I knew him before the war, when he was one of the editors of a Democratic paper in Bellefonte, and collected nearly or all the debts due the establishment, never giving credit for a single dollar received, and when his partner commenced closing up the concern by sending out bills to his patrons to "pay up," they came rushing at him with this same Brisbin's receipts, who had got the money and spent it, thereby ruining his brother-in-law, who was his partner. I knew him too, when he was "dead in love" with a certain young lady not a hundred miles from Huntingdon. When he contemplated a visit to her, he would write to the Brass Band belonging to the town and employ them to serenade him. Oh! glorious Brisbin, he would then deliver himself of a flaming speech. It must to have cost him at least $25 for each and every occasion. I should not forget to mention that he would write to the editor of the county paper, in time for the issue previous to his arrival, a puff, done up in his handsomest style, with a speech annexed, that was to be delivered to the aforesaid band, with a very modest request to publish and oblige. The editor told me that "Jim" could say better things of "Jim" than he felt called upon to say himself. I call him "Jim;" everybody knew him then by that name. It is now General (?) if you please. I knew him when, by some legerdemain, at the commencement of the war, he managed to get a commission as Lieutenant in the regular army. After the battle of the first Bull Run he came to Harrisburg badly wounded. On his way from Washington to Harrisburg, he had his right arm in a sling. When he arrived there, he found it necessary to write a few puffs for the newspapers, in regard to his "valorous deeds" at Bull Run, and found it inconvenient to do so with his left hand, so by a little "now you see it, and now you don't see it," he changed the bandage from the right to the left arm. He was found in his room writing at a rapid rate, by a friend who called to see him soon after his arrival. Shortly after, his wound suddenly migrated to his side. A friend of the writer, who met "Jim" in Harrisburg, and who was himself a soldier and had been in the vicinity of the Bull Run fight, but not engaged, told him that there was no use in his trying to "play off" wounded any longer, as he would "blow" on him. "Jim" disappeared, and no one ever saw his wound, not even to this day. He was never any place where he could get a wound, either. He was smart enough during the war to always get himself placed on detached or special duty of some kind, thereby avoiding the "shock of battle," for "Jim" never could have braved it. I never heard of it, anyhow, nor any one else that I ever heard of. Letters, such as he has been writing lately, about Andrew G. Curtin, coming from General (?) James S. Brisbin, of Kentucky, are high sounding, no doubt, but coming from Jim Brisbin, of Centre co., Pa., fall harmlessly to the ground, as emanating from a whisky befuddled brain. He dare not go to Centre county and utter such things. He is known—well known there,—It is a well known fact, that he is a man devoid of anything like principle, and in Bellefonte, he is neither liked nor respected by his relatives or acquaintances. It ill becomes a bloated buffoon and brainless bombast, who has sent home from Kentucky more silver plate than would supply half a dozen well regulated families, to denounce A. G. Curtin as a bad man, a political trickster, and to say that the life of our comrade (goak) Grant, would not be safe for a single day, with Curtin as Vice President. He says he will be compelled to enter his protest at Chicago, against Curtin being nominated for Vice President. All I have to say is, if Gen. (?) Brisbin shows himself at the Soldiers National Convention at Chicago on the 19th of May next, he will exhibit more true courage than he has ever been charged with being possessed of.

SELDOM.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Pacific and Union Pacific railroad is now finished 560 miles west of Omaha.

The Columbia Herald says: The present flood has carried away a portion of the dam, near the place where it was repaired last year. The break is reported by our river men to be the largest which has occurred in several years, and that in all probability a large number of shad will pass up on free tickets, without the necessity of hunting for the "Fish Wier."

A telegram from Fort McPherson says the Indians, supposed to be a part of Spotted Tail's band, or Cheyennes, made a dash upon men cutting wood, yesterday, killing four and wounding two, who were brought in. The killed are John Brown, Gushall, George Kline and James Viers. The wounded are E. Hoffman, scalped and badly wounded by an arrow, and a boy named Tanney, aged 14, dangerously wounded.

A telegram has been received here from the General Superintendent of the road, Mr. H. Riddle, to the effect that the report of the conductor of the sleeping car, who is now in New York, shows that there were twenty-three passengers in the rear coach that was completely destroyed by fire. As, so far as has been ascertained, but two persons escaped from this car, and the remains of six only have been recovered, this leaves fifteen of whom there is no trace.—N. Y. Times

Both political parties should place in nomination for the Legislature their most capable and honest man—men of principle and good, plain common sense—not loud mouthed demagogues or tricky wire workers who are sure to go heavy for public plunder but ignore the wants of the people. We like the bold stand taken by the Erie Dispatch and the State Guard upon this subject. The press in this State and all over the country should go in for reform in this particular and fight political corruption, wherever and whenever it is met, whether in the halls of legislation or in party conventions.—Pithole Record.

The Crosby Opera House, Chicago, has been engaged for the coming Republican National Convention, but some Republicans are dissatisfied with the arrangement, owing to the comparatively limited size of the Hall, and a movement is on foot to secure the erection of a mammoth Wigwam on the Dake shore. Delegates to the Republican National Convention will be furnished with a free pass, good over any Road, under the existing arrangement, and which will be sent them through the chairman of their respective State Central Committees, on application by the latter to Dr. Charles V. Dyer, Chairman of the Chicago Committee of Arrangements.

Our readers will recollect the account which we published the other day of the terrible death of Mr. Ehrler, of this county, who was crushed by a rock while mining near Mineral Point. Ehrler had a dream the night before the accident, amounting to a presentment of what followed. He was so impressed in his dream with the idea that he was being crushed with a rock, that no got out of bed while yet asleep and called for some one to remove the rock, which was crushing the life out of him. He related this dream to his wife on being roused from his sleep. She tried to prevail on him not to go to the diggings that day, but he remarked it was only a dream, and promising to be careful, went to his work, and his dream was realized.—Galena [Ill.] Gazette.

☞The trial of John H. Surratt has been fixed for the 12th of May, Judge D. K. Carter presiding.

THE BANKRUPT LAW, AND WHO MAY TAKE ADVANTAGE OF IT.—The first of June is the time allowed to those desiring to take advantage of the Bankrupt Law. For the benefit of those who do not understand the law, we furnish the following abstract:

Who may take advantage of this law?

Any person, or firm, who owes debts to the amount of three hundred dollars or upward, whether they be individual or partnership debts, or both, and it makes no difference what is the character of the indebtedness, whether it be by bill, note, account, judgment, as principal, or suroty, or otherwise.

What does the law demand of the applicant?

That he shall surrender his property, except such as is hereinafter mentioned, to his creditors, for a pro rata distribution among them.

What does the law permit the applicant to keep?

First—Household and kitchen furniture and necessaries to the amount of five hundred dollars.

Second—The uniform, arms and equipments of any person who is, or has been, a soldier in the militia or the service of the United States.

Third—If the applicant is the head of a family, his homestead, to the value of five hundred dollars. If he has no homestead, then in lieu thereof money or other personal property, to the value of three hundred dollars.

If the applicant has only so much property as is above enumerated, of course he has nothing to give up to his creditors.

The result of the benefit of taking this law is a discharge from all indebtedness.

In cases where there is no contest, it requires from sixty to ninety days to procure this discharge.

TREASURER'S SALE OF UNSEATED LANDS IN HUNTINGDON COUNTY.

WHEREAS, by an act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, entitled "An act to amend an act directing the mode of selling unseated lands for taxes and other purposes," passed 13th March, 1816, and the other acts upon the subject, the Treasurers of the several counties within this Commonwealth are directed to commence on the 2d Monday in June, in the year 1816, and at the expiration of every two years thereafter, and adjourn from day to day, if it be necessary to do so, and make public sale of the whole or any part of such tract of unseated land, situate in the proper county, as will pay the arrearages of the taxes which shall have then remained due or unpaid for the space of one year before, together with all costs necessarily accruing by reason of such delinquency. &c. Therefore, I, M. M. LOCAL & PERSONAL.

Brief Items.

—Some of the castles built in the air are coming down "to a dead level."

—Hon. L. W. Hall and wife have arrived home safely from their European trip.

—Numerous: the quantity of "sells" now going the rounds. We protest, as they are of a very bad quality.

—It is said that blue coats with brass buttons are again coming into fashion. Get out your "revolutionors."

—Johnstown has a Division of the Sons of Temperance numbering one hundred and twenty-five members.

—Giving presents to almost everybody but the printers, is popular in Johnstown.

—Spring, we hope, has now set in, and farmers and gardeners can go to work in earnest.

—Six live owls were caught last week near Mr. Womelsdorf's, in Juniata township.

—The contract for carrying the U. S. mail from Centre Hall to Spruce Creek, was awarded to M. Buoy, of Lewistown.

—A white stripling named Irwin Peachy was married to a colored girl named Ellen Edmison, in McVeytown, Mifflin county. Whew, peach-blossoms!

—Query: Does a man understand thoroughly all about ichthyology because he catches a string of fish and gives them to an editor?

—West Juniata District, I. O. of G. T.'s, will hold its next quarterly convention at Bloody Run, commencing Tuesday next, May 5th.

—The pottery manufacturing establishment of Mr. A. J. Haws of Johnstown, was destroyed by fire on Wednesday. Loss $12,000; insurance $4000.

—Self-teacher: the Babbiltonian Penmanship, far in advance of all other systems. For sale at Lewis' Book Store.

—The Eureka Ice Cream Garden on Church street is now open for the season. For a saucer of ye luxury don't fail to call at the Eureka.

—The farm house about a mile below town, occupied by Mr. Wm. Richardson, was destroyed by fire about one o'clock this morning. We have not learned particulars.

—Hard winters, with large snowfalls, have often been followed by summers remarkably productive. This summer will likely be no exception, even if the spring is somewhat late.

—W. M. Williamson, Esq., of the law firm of Woods & Williamson, of this place, has been appointed a Notary Public, by Governor Geary. A good appointment.

—Refreshing: the sparkling nectar drawn from the splendid soda fountain at D. Africa's Confectionery. It will be a great institution on a warm day. Try it, everybody.

—A cow owned by Mr. Wm. Morningstar was killed on the Broad Top Railroad, on Saturday. Also, one owned by Mr. John Nash had her leg broken.

—A man named John B. Davis, while working in a mine at Johnstown, was killed almost instantly by a quantity of coal and slate falling upon him.

—Just think of it: weather prophets predict that we will have the deepest snow of the season some time in May next. Tell us, ye winged winds, if we are going to have no peas or 'inguns.'

—If there are any persons who like to read their neighbor's Globe, we advise them to stop and think whether they wouldn't feel better if they should subscribe and pay for their own.

—The elephant Romeo, of which we have heard so much, passed through the principal street of our town on Friday last, without stopping to even notice any body.

—Agents wanted to secure subscribers for a book, "The War between the States, its causes, character, conduct and results," by Hon. Alexander H. Stephens. See advertisement.

—Mrs. Maria Montgomery, a vagrant colored woman of this place, was indicted for malicious mischief at the last term of court. She was ordered to be taken to the Poor House.

—We call special attention to advertisement of Rev. John Hewitt, who has taken the Huntingdon Academy and will open it for scholars on the 29th inst. Mr. H. comes amongst us highly recommended.

—A young lady who was being taken to the insane asylum at Philadelphia, recently walked off the fast line while it was in motion, near Bell's Mills, and singular to state she escaped any serious injury.

—The Sons of Temperance will meet in the Court House on Saturday evening next, for the purpose of transacting important business. All the members, and persons wishing to become members, are requested to attend.

—A large train of one hundred coal cars drawn by engine No. 94 recently passed up the Broad Top railroad. It was nearly a mile long. The cars are to be filled with coal, orders for which are rapidly increasing.

—We overheard a man at the Circus, while beholding the elephant Romeo, express himself thus: "They say I've got a pretty big nose, but I believe Romeo's is bigger." What a consolation.

—The "local" of the Altoona Tribune has had a "gathering," so he calls it; and in consideration thereof he gave it a forty-line "puff" in his paper.—Such "gatherings" must be expensive luxuries, reckoning at 10 cents a line.

—Richter's hall, in Oneida township, is under roof. A street is being opened by Mr. Bryan, near the hall, and the land will soon be sold in lots. An effort, we understand, is being made to include this land in the borough.—It had better be done now than again.

—A Young Men's Christian Association is being established in Johnstown The committee has had some difficulty in the adoption of a constitution. This was the main difficulty with the one in this place, but which, we are happy to state, was timely overcome.

—The forty-ninth anniversary of Odd Fellowship was celebrated in this place on Sunday last. Rev. R. E. Wilson delivered a sermon in their behalf in the Methodist church in the morning, which was full of instruction, and well received by his hearers.

—Daniel Webster once said, and he said wisely: "Small is the sum that is required to patronize a newspaper and amply rewarded is its patron. It is impossible to fill a sheet with printed matter without putting something in it that is worth the price of subscription."

—We received the first number of the Altoona Vindicator, published by James F. Campbell & Son. The paper is Democratic in politics, and looks as if it had already stormed through several years of an existence. As its heading would indicate it is a "fast line" paper, nevertheless.

—We call attention to the advertisement of S. B. McCarthy & Bro. in today's issue. They are prepared to insure life, property and live stock, and to negotiate for the purchase and sale of real estate. The policy of insuring commends itself to every one, and we recommend this firm to the consideration of the public.

—Mr. A. E. Bradley, of New York, delivered a lecture on Temperance in the Court House on Thursday evening last. He gave every evidence of a pleasing speaker, and his remarks were devoid of anything that could offend any one. Such speakers accomplish permanent good, and should be kept in the service.

—The frame dwelling opposite the Globe office, occupied by Mr. Levi Westbrook, was sold on Thursday last to Mr. John H. Westbrook for $3,000. "Boss" has been a resident of "ye ancient borough" for fifty-five years, and he now leaves for the town of Alliance, Ohio, to engage in the boot and shoe business. We wish him success.

—Many of our citizens were out playing "shovel mud" last week. This is a game getting popular now-a-days, and it can be played in the street or in the garden. This amusement is different from others, because it always adds to the comfort of the players, and good players are in demand.

—A public meeting for the purpose of receiving subscriptions to the capital stock of the Stone Creek Railroad Company will be held at McAlevy's Fort on Saturday, the 16th of May.—Let all the friends of progress be present to give this worthy enterprise their encouragement and assistance.

—We believe we have spoken of our Cemetery before, and we now re assert that there is great room for improvement in and around the entrance, and elsewhere. We suggest that a gate be put by the side of the present one, for the accommodation of those who visit the graves of their departed. The present mode of getting over the fence is voted a decided nuisance.

—Rev. H. M. Johnson, D. D., President of Dickinson College at Carlisle, and Rev. H. L. Baugher, D. D., President of Pennsylvania College at Gettysburg, have both died within a few days. Their loss will be greatly felt in their respective institutions. Dickinson College is under the control of the Methodist Episcopal church and Pennsylvania College is a Lutheran institution.

—An old store keeper, somewhere in this State, tells that he used to rig out many a lady, from head to foot, for one dollar, thus: Six yards of calico. at six cents per yard, 36 cents; one pair of shoes, 40 cents; one pair of stockings, 6 cents; one bonnet, 18 cts. We are afraid the days of such low prices will not come in this generation, as we live in fast times and faster prices. The ladies, too, would think a dollar "rig" too cheap to sail under in which to catch a beau.

Bold Robbery.—Safe Robbed.

The safe in the office of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at this place was broken open and despoiled of $165 in money on Tuesday night of last week. There being no watchman in the building, the thieves effected an entrance into the depot, and from thence into the office, without molestation, when they deliberately proceeded to break a hole in the door of the safe, (a chilled iron one and supposed to be burglar proof,) and charging it with powder blew it into smithereens. The rascals doubtless anticipated a rich haul, but only realized some $65 for their trouble, the balance being in checks and not available. No clue, we believe, has been obtained to the perpetrators of the burglary.—Standard.

☞The following act in reference to the selection of jurors for this county is now a law:

An act for the selection of jurors in the county of Huntingdon:

Sec. 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the Jury commissioners of the county of Huntingdon be and they are hereby authorized to meet on the first Monday of May, A. D., 1868, and select Jurors for the year 1868, with the same effect and in like manner as is required by the act, approved April 10th A. D., 1868, "entitled an act for the better and more impartial selection of persons to serve as Jurors in each of the counties of this Commonwealth."

☞The Vestry of St. John's Episcopal Church, of this place, have procured the services of Rev. Mr. J. Hewitt, of Mississippi, as Rector of said Church. Mr. Hewitt preached his introductory sermon on last Sunday. Services in this Church on every Sunday, or at the discretion of the Rector. It is the intention of Mr. Hewitt to open a Select School in the Academy Building, at an early day. This is something that is needed, and it is hoped that he will be encouraged in this noble work.

☞You are sensible, Mrs. A.—your rooms look beautiful—how cheerful! You purchased your paper in Philadelphia, I suppose? Mrs. A.—No—it is from the manufacturers in New York, but I purchased it at Lewis' Book Store at less money than I could in Philadelphia. He has a very large stock of handsome new styles.

Railroad Meetings.

A meeting of citizens favorable to the erection of the projected railroad from Huntingdon to McAlevy's Fort was held in the Court House, pursuant to previous notice, on Wednesday evening the 15th inst.

The meeting was organized by the appointment of Henry Cornprobst as Chairman, and J. Simpson Africa and Robert M'Divitt, Secretaries.

The object of the meeting was then stated by R. Bruce Petriken, Esq., to secure the incorporation of a railroad between the points specified, which, though in its present shape, might seem to be a local road, yet must finally become one of the links in the chain of railroads running north and south through the State. The charter secured, incorporates a company with a capital of $300,000 under the law of 1849, and in order that it become a law it would be necessary to pay $110 enrollment tax to lift the charter, after which the next step would be to get sufficient stock to secure letters patent from the Government.

The company can then proceed to elect officers, make preliminary surveys, &c. An experimental line he said was once run over the same route and the estimated expense of building a road over it would not exceed $5000 a mile. The advantages of such a road to the farmers of this neighborhood and the citizens of this town were referred to, after which it was

Resolved, That, in order to ascertain the wishes and sentiments of the people on the subject, a committee of three be appointed by the Chair to raise a sufficient amount of money to pay the enrollment tax on the charter.

The chair appointed as said committee, R. Bruce Petriken, Esq., J. Simpson Africa, and John Jackson.

Resolved, That the corporators in the act to incorporate the Stone Creek Railroad Co., be requested to prepare and sign a call for a meeting to receive subscriptions, preparatory to an organization of the company, at as early a day as practicable.

Immediately after the adjournment a meeting of citizens favorable to the erection of the Washington and Buffalo Railroad was organized by appointing John Dougherty, Esq., Chairman, and R. McDivitt, Secretary.

The object of this meeting as briefly stated by the Chairman, was a preparatory step towards the completion of a railroad connection between Washington and the Lakes, by way of Fort Louden and Huntingdon, to Buffalo and Erie. He suggested the appointment of delegates from the counties of Fulton and Franklin to confer together in regard to the proposed route, &c.

The following resolution was offered by Capt. H. C. Weaver, and adopted.

Resolved, That the citizens of Franklin and Fulton counties be respectfully requested to meet in convention at such time and place they may select, to appoint delegates to meet similar delegates appointed at this convention to determine which of the three railroad laws passed by the last Session of the Legislature of Pennsylvania it will be for the best interests of the persons interested under which to raise subscriptions to the capital stock thereof and proceed to organize a company to build the Louden division of the Washington and Buffalo Railroad.

Capt. H. C. Weaver, Maj. R. B. Petriken, James Kelley, Esq., Michael Stair and Thos. E. Orbison were appointed as said delegates.

Letters from the President of the Buffalo and Washington Railroad, at Buffalo, were read before the meeting which were expressive of very encouraging and satisfactory assurances of the ultimate success of the enterprise.

Major Petriken offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the friends of the Buffalo and Washington Railroad be also invited to meet with the aforesaid delegates, from this and other counties of the State.

The charter of the Huntingdon, Fulton, and Franklin Railroad company was read, and after a few eloquent remarks by the Chairman, in relation to the necessity, advantages and importance of the enterprise, the meeting adjourned.

[COMMUNICATED.]

The brief communication in your last issue from the classic pen of "T. P. C.," in reference to the death of John Reed, Esq., as a worthy member of the "House of York," brings fresh to my recollection many pleasant and some sorrowful scenes enacted in that House. "Fond memory brings the light of other days around me." Of the numerous and happy hearts that filled that House with gladness, how few still beat in the land of the living!

Mrs. Clark, the excellent lady who kept the House of York, and Arthur and Ann, her son and daughter, all three are dead. Dr. Rowan Clark, of Blair county, is the only survivor of that interesting family. Ellen Anderson and John P. Anderson, and little Willie, are all dead, and A. R. Cornyn, Esq., (to whom Miss Ellen was married,) with his wonderful and fascinating powers of conversation, he too is dead. All the Dorsey children, John, Greenberry, Lizzie, (who was married to Tom Duncan,) and Harry, are dead. Col. Wm. Buchanan, with his great physical strength and wonderful powers of endurance, but with what John Williamson called his "bumble bee" voice, is dead; and Col. Wharton, with his generous heart and manly form, he too is dead. Judge Burnside, the younger, and Judge Wilson, both welcome guests at the House of York, are dead. Mr. Massey, from West Virginia, who taught in the Academy, and whose respected widow and son still reside in Huntingdon, is dead; and Dixon from Illinois, who also taught in the Academy, and who was so agreeable and fascinating in his manners that on his death-bed he courted and won the heart of Miss ——, then a member of the House of York; poor Dixon, he died in that House. James Clark, the genial and talented editor of the "Journal," he too is dead; and Isaac Fisher, with his fine intellect, he is dead. I have often wished he had lived to see the downfall of negro slavery in the United States, for which he labored so long and bore the reproach of many. What has become of G. W. Johnston, of Westmoreland, a handsome and gallant member of the House in its palmiest days; does he survive? who can tell? And Miss Phillips, the excellent teacher, who afterwards married a Mr. Dobbins, of York State, what has become of her? who can tell?

We had some gay times too. When "Shaver's Creek," "Shade Gap" and "Chillisquaqua" (let him that readeth understand) were all three on the floor at the same time, and neither of whom could dance any more than a bear, my word for it, that was a lively cotillion.

One word in regard to the character of John Reed whom we all so much respected. When his father made his will, for some reason he left his estate, the bulk, if not the whole of it to his son John, who after his father's death threw the will into the fire and let the estate be divided equally to his brothers and sisters under the intestate laws. This fact was told to me by Major Steel since the death of John Reed. Another fact I mention from personal knowledge. More than once when Mr. Reed was Register, &c., when a poor widow would come to administer on her husband's estate, Mr. Reed while the bail or others were present would take his fees for granting letters, but immediately afterwards would follow the widow to her hotel and privately return to her every cent of fees she had paid him in the office. The memory of the just is blessed. B.

A Female Forger.

During one day last week, one of the boldest forgeries of which we ever knew a female to be guilty, was committed by a woman by the name of Kate Stover, who resides near Yellow Springs, in this county. It seems this fair, but frail creature, being out of funds, went to the First National Bank of this city, with what purported to be a check for seven hundred dollars, drawn by one Emma Hile, of Golden Springs, payable to the order of Daniel K. Ramey, of Hollidaysburg, and endorsed by him. The officers of the bank having no acquaintance with fair one, sent her to get it endorsed by some responsible person. She soon returned with it having forged the endorsement of Richard McLain, with whom she alleged she was acquainted. She was then paid three hundred dollars in money, and an obligation given her for four hundred dollars. But they soon found that the whole thing was a forgery, that Emma Hile had never drawn it, and that neither Ramey nor Mr. McLain had endorsed it. We understand that Mr. Ramey having obtained a warrant for her arrest, succeeded in getting back the money drawn from the bank. But why is she not arrested and punished? A few days ago, this same woman imposed upon several of our merchants by personating others, and obtaining from them a large amount of goods by false pretenses.—She was then permitted to escape, and we hope that the vigilance of our police will not again permit her to escape the condign punishment of the law.—Altoona Vindicator.

Planting out Strawberries.

We have no time to answer individual inquiries in relation to garden crops. We try to inform all, so far as we are able to do so, how we manage things successfully, and they can follow us if they see proper.

As to planting out strawberries, about which we have many inquiries, there are several ways. Of course, the ground must be dug a good depth and pulverized carefully, having applied a liberal quantity of barnyard manure. The beds can be marked out three feet wide and made as long as may be desirable. Let the foot-paths between the beds be eighteen inches apart and remove from them all the runners as fast as they encroach. Set the plants firmly in the ground 1 foot apart each way. Get the Triomphe de Gand, which is of mixed sexes, and Hovey's Seedling, which is a pistillate, and plant them in alternate beds but do not let them mix, which they will do if the vines are allowed to cross the paths. Some persons may prefer Russell's prolific, which is an excellent variety, or Jocunda, which cannot well be beaten. Either of these can be substituted for Triomphe, if Hovey is retained, which we would advise, as there is no berry more certain to give a crop, or which is handsomer in appearance, which will bear as many years without renewing the bed, or which is much superior.

Many persons prefer the hill system of planting out strawberries, and with some very strong growing varieties it may possibly be the best; but from our own experience we prefer the broad-cast planting. It has several advantages. The plants keep the ground moister, it requires less labor and the beds last twice as long by producing new bearing plants every year. In the hills the old plants are fruited year after year and, as a consequence, the berries yearly get smaller.

One thing must be particularly borne in mind: the beds must be kept clear of weeds, for if they are allowed to get headway they will seriously damage the crop. Late in autumn the beds should be covered with light manure and in the spring the very coarsest portion should either be removed or carefully placed about the plants.

There is no more trouble to cultivate a bed of strawberries than there is a bed of onions or cabbage, and this we wish all those who do not raise the delicious fruit to remember.—Germantown Telegraph.

RAISING COLTS.—I have always found that nothing is gained by starving the mother, or stinting the colt. It is the most important period in the life of the horse, and if from false economy his growth is arrested, his puny form and want of endurance will ever afterwards testify to the error that has been committed. From the time the colt is old enough to crack corn or oats, the mother should be fed in a trough so situated that the colt can partake with her.

At from four to six months old, according to the growth of the colt, he may be weaned, and I have found them do best when housed until they quit fretting after their mother. There is no principle of greater importance than the liberal feeding of the colt during the whole of his growth, and at the time of weaning especially. Oats and bran should form a considerable part of his daily provender. The farmer may be assured that the money is well laid out, which is expended on the liberal nourishment of the growing colt; yet, while he is well fed he should not be rendered delicate by excess of care. My colts are hard to spoil by good treatment. What I have written is from actual observation, and I was brought up in a settlement in Clinton Co., Ohio, that produced as many first class horses, perhaps, as any part of the State, and he always made it a rule to keep them fat and strong, through the whole of their growth.

I have never been able to see why it was necessary to starve a colt to death to make a good horse of him.

This rule will not hold good in raising cattle, hogs or sheep, and why starve the colts?—Prairie Farmer.

KICKING IN THE STABLE.—If a horse only kicks when he is being dressed, we will dispose of him in a very few words. He mostly kicks merely from being ticklish, and then from habit; he means no harm. Any decent stable man knows how to keep out of danger with such a horse, even a common hostler does; if not, let him get a rap, and then he will learn. Such a horse is little objectionable. Many will kick in the stable as soon as the lights are put out; and the men gone, they merely kick at the standings and stall posts, with what intention we never could find out. Idleness, we conclude, first induced them to do it, and habit induces them to keep it up.

It is a bad trick, for it not only keeps them from their rest, but disturbs other horses. Yet it is no serious objection; a collarshank log, buckled with a small strap in the hollow of the pastern, usually stops them; if not, put on a strap and chain twelve or fourteen inches long. This rarely fails. If neither will do, put the horse in a box, and let him kick till he is tired of it. Many horses kick when first mounted; if the rider is aware that he can sit tight in the saddle, and does not mind the little inconveniences of this habit, there is no reason to reject such a horse; it is no indication whatever of his being a kicker in any way; or any presumptive evidence of vice; it is an acquired habit, of which most probably he will never be broken. Correction would only spoil his temper, and probably induce him to kick at us instead of the air.

HOW TO STOP THE FLOW OF BLOOD.—Housekeepers, mechanics and others, in handling knives, tools and other sharp instruments, frequently receive severe cuts, from which blood flows profusely, and often endangers life itself. Blood may be made to cease to flow as follows: Take the fine dust of tea and bind it close to the wound—at all times accessible and easy to be obtained. After the blood has ceased to flow, laudanum is advantageously applied to the wound. Due regard to these instructions would save agitation of mind and running for a surgeon, who probably would make no better prescription if he were present.

A Remedy that has been tried and stood the test, not only in an occasional case, but in every community where used it has been pronounced the safest and most reliable remedy known for

DYSPEPSIA,

LOSS OF APPETITE,

WEAKNESS,

GENERAL DEBILITY,

PAIN OR CRAMP IN THE STOMACH OR BOWELS,

CHOLERA MORBUS,

HEADACHE,

NEURALGIA,

INTERMITTENT, OR CHILLS AND FEVER,

LIVER TONIC,

AND FOR ALL FEMALE DISEASES.

As an agreeable and safe remedy and an Invigorating Beverage it has no equal.

This valuable Bitters is composed of the essential properties of roots—the medicinal qualities of which have been carefully extracted. It is agreeable to the taste and does not leave that unpleasant taste in the mouth for hours after, that most medicines do.

As a Blood Purifier and Liver Tonic it has no equal.—It contains no calomel or other injurious drug, but is purely vegetable.

For Dyspepsia it cannot be excelled. It contains nothing injurious to the stomach, is mild and prompt in its action and effects a permanent cure by removing the cause of the complaint.

For Intermittent Fever or Chills and Fever this Bitters is a specific far better and surer than quinine.

No family should be without it as the cost is trifling compared with the suffering that may be avoided by having it at hand in case of sudden attack.

Weakly Persons use the Oriental Bitters.

Invalids use the Oriental Bitters.

Dyspeptics use the Oriental Bitters.

Females use the Oriental Bitters.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town.
